Maximum Security Collect Service: Maximum Security Collect service, which is provided subject to billing availability, is Operator Station Collect calls placed from certain authorized institutional telephones presubscribed to the Company and completed to Customers who have previously agreed to accept these calls and have pre-established Company accounts for the service. Service under Maximum Security Collect Special Offerings will be provided whenever prior arrangements have been made with host authorities. D/C

Maximum Security Collect Customer Accounts: Beginning December 2, 2002, Customers who do not have established direct remit accounts with the Company, under which the Customer is billed directly by, and directly remits to, the Company or its agent, and/or for whom the serving Local Exchange Carrier will not bill and collect charges for the service on behalf of the Company must pre-establish Maximum Security Collect Customer accounts for the service under the following options:

Maximum Security Collect Customer accounts, under which the Customer is billed directly by, and directly remits to, the Company, may be established under the following options:

Credit Card Account Option: The Customer must provide the Company the account number of a commercial credit card accepted by the Company to which charges for the service will be charged. Under this option, a Customer may receive up to six Maximum Security Collect calls per monthly billing period, except as otherwise set forth in this Section.

Non-Credit Card Account Option: Payment for Company invoices must be by money order or cashier's check. Under this option, a Customer may receive up to four Maximum Security Collect calls per monthly billing period, except as otherwise set forth in this Section.

The following provisions apply to all Maximum Security Collect Customer accounts:

The Customer must provide the Company with the Customer's telephone number and associated billing address

At the time of account establishment, the Customer must provide the Company prepayment for service in an amount which equals or exceeds $50, which will be applied to charges for the service.

Upon Customer request to the Company following establishment of an account and credit-worthiness acceptable to the Company, the Customer may request that the Company increase the Customer's call threshold by 5 calls per month per request, up to 30 calls per month.

The Company may terminate a Customer's account 30 days following the payment due date of an unpaid invoice.
